ABOUT US

Fairweather Johnsons are like those fair-weather friends who only show up when the sun is shining! They'll hop on any winning team's bandwagon and cheer like there's no tomorrow. But at Fairweather Johnson, we're all about the die-hard fans, rocking our 100% recycled apparel line to show true team spirit!

Through thick and thin—whether it's glory days or epic fails, undefeated streaks or seasons that make you weep, rebuilding squads or powerhouse rosters, conference champions or the ones at the bottom of the barrel—we're in this together! We'll cheer through the wild walk-offs, nail-biting buzzer-beaters, and those heart-stopping last-second field goals!

100% RECYCLED

The Fairweather Johnson line is made entirely from recycled materials. Recycled cotton involves converting used cotton fabric into fibers that can be reprocessed into new products, such as those featured in this catalog. Utilizing reclaimed manufacturing techniques can lead to a reduction of 60 gallons of water usage per t-shirt and a 45% decrease in carbon footprint.

THE PROCESS

Textile waste marks the beginning of Fairweather Johnson, not the conclusion. We utilize leftover scraps and fabric from production, known as post-industrial waste, and combine them with post-consumer waste, such as worn clothing and discarded textile items.

The process involves separating the waste by color and cutting the materials into smaller pieces. These pieces are then blended and processed to achieve the desired content and color before being converted into fiber.

This fiber is spun into our recycled yarn, with no dyeing involved and all accomplished without water consumption.

Ultimately, the yarn is knitted into the various fabrics and weights found in our apparel collection.

Fairweather Johnson represents a sustainable closed-loop product solution.

Unisex Lightweight Short Sleeve

Under Coach Jim Valvano, the NC State Wolfpack's 1983 March Madness run was a thrilling Cinderella story. They faced four nail-biting wins, starting with a double-overtime victory over Pepperdine. A dramatic comeback against UNLV, highlighted by Thurl Bailey's buzzer-beater, followed. After a blowout win over Utah, they edged Virginia by one point in the Elite Eight thanks to Lorenzo Charles' free throws. In the Final Four, they defeated Georgia and faced Houston in the championship. In a dramatic finish, Charles scored the game-winning dunk off a wild three-pointer, clinching the NCAA title!

Unisex Midweight Short Sleeve Ringer

During the 1960s, the ringer t-shirt emerged as a fashion essential for the youth and rock-n-roll enthusiasts. This decade also introduced tie-dyeing and screen-printing techniques, transforming the basic T-shirt into a canvas for wearable art. Warren Dayton, a designer known for his psychedelic art posters, was a pioneer in this movement, creating bold and colorful designs that featured political themes, protests, and pop culture icons. His T-shirts showcased images of figures like Cesar Chavez, along with political cartoons and other cultural references, as highlighted in a late 1969 article in the LA Times Magazine. Ironically, the clothing company soon discontinued this experimental line, fearing a lack of market interest.

Unisex Midweight Long Sleeve

The 2003 NCAA Division I-A football season wrapped up in a whirlwind of drama, leaving us with a split national championship as both Southern California and LSU raised their banners high! This was the first time since the BCS came to town that we had a title tug-of-war, which was a big ol' "oops" for the BCS, who tried to bury such chaos. Southern California strutted in at No. 1 in the AP poll, while LSU snagged the top spot in the Coaches' Poll, forcing them to cozy up and share the 2003 college football crown!

Unisex Midweight Long Sleeve Hooded Pullover

In 1964, Walter Maxwell became the talk of the town for saltwater anglers when he snagged a world record tiger shark! What made this catch even more legendary? He did it from a pier—talk about reeling in some serious bragging rights! Believe it or not, he almost pulled off this epic feat twice within 24 hours! Just a day before his record-breaking moment, he hooked an even larger tiger shark but lost it right at the pier's edge, with over 100 spectators cheering like it was the Super Bowl! "The fish was taking out line so fast that the reel would start smoking" reminisced Marilyn Small, who captured the only known snaps of the shark. What a catch!

Loopback Sweatshirt

The legendary sweatshirt made its debut thanks to Benjamin Russell Jr., a football champ, back in 1926! He had a light bulb moment, dreaming up an all-cotton practice jersey. Fed up with those scratchy wool get-ups, the founder's son decided it was high time to trade in the chafing horrors for something way cooler and comfier!

Loopback Full Zip Hoodie

In the fabulous '30s, the first hooded pullovers made their debut, strutting their stuff in style! But wait—hold onto your zippers—because it was the mid-'30s that brought us the zipper we all know and love today, thanks to the genius minds at the Talon Company. So, if you're treasure hunting in thrift stores, keep an eye out for those vintage pants with "TALON" on the zipper pull tabs! And guess what? The very first zippered sweatshirt hit the shelves in 1936 at the Halle Brothers Department Store in Cleveland, Ohio. Fashion history, folks—zip it up!
